

1. Hi Caleb! Your literature review does a great job of exploring both the positive and negative effects of social media, and you incorporate strong research to support your points. One suggestion would be to refine your thesis statement to make it clearer and more direct, ensuring that it sets up your key arguments effectively. Additionally, some sections could benefit from smoother transitions between ideas to enhance readability and flow. Lastly, revisiting sentence structure and citation formatting would help make your paper more polished and cohesive. Overall, you have a solid foundation, and with a few refinements, this will be a strong academic piece!

2. Caleb Castro's literature review, "The Effects of Social Media," explores both the benefits and drawbacks of social media with strong research support. The paper covers key areas like parenting, health, and employment but could be clearer and more concise. Some points need deeper analysis, and transitions could be smoother. Minor grammar issues and citation consistency should also be addressed. The conclusion is solid but could offer more critical insight. With some refinement, this could be a strong academic piece. Great effort, Caleb!
